

Legion or Group	Description	Approx. Eastern Troops	Approx. Western Troops	Total Troops
X Frentensis	Eastern	4,500	500	5,000
XII Fulminata	Eastern Cappadocia, Syria	4,500	500	5,000
V Macedonia	Mixed Originally from Moesia, but stationed in Syria since 62 (Pollard, Soldiers, Says that during war, local recruitment, often emergency recruitment, would have picked up dramatically)	2,000	3000 Approx. 750 Italians, +2,250 Europeans	5,000
XV Appollinarus	Mixed From Pannanonia, but stationed in Syria since 58 (See Keppie, Making of the Roman Legions, p. 210) (Pollard, Soldiers, Says that during war, local recruitment, often emergency recruitment, would have picked up)	2,500	2,500 Approx 500 Italians, +2,000 Europeans	5,000
III Cyrenaica	North African / Egyptian Cohorts from 30 onwards A majority of Eastern peoples, from Asia Minor) (Pollard, Complete, 156)	3,300 (Dando-Collins 178 says Tacitus says that "several cohorts from III were sent)	200	3,500
XXII Deiotariana	One source says they had been in Syria since 41. Tacitus says they were raised in Libya. (Dando-Collins 178) Sent 4 Egyptian cohorts (Keppie, Making p. 212)	1,900	1,00	2,000

Legion or Group	Description	Approx. Eastern Troops	Approx. Western Troops	Total Troops
IV Scythica VI Ferrata	“troops ‘from the Euphrates’” Legionary Vexillations (See Keppie, Legions, p. 192)	3,000		3,000
Eastern Auxillaries	Cheesman says: “Thus Antiochus III of Commagene, Agrippa II, Sohaemus of Emesa, and Malchus of Damascus contributed 15,000 men to the army which Vespasian led into Palestine in the spring of 67.”	15,000
King Malchus the Arab		6,000		6,000
King Agrippa II	Sent 2,000 men, archers and calvary	2,000		2,000
King Sohemus		2,000		2,000
King Antiochus IV of Commagene	King of a portion of Armenia (Region of Modern day Turkey and Syria)	2,000		2,000
Aretas the Arabian	“a great army of horse and foot” (See Josephus’, Wars 2.5.1)	3,000 (see Cheesman)		3,000
Total		36,700	8,100	44,800

